THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE.

Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial. NASHVILLE, August 25, 1877. The twenty-sixth annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science will be held in this city, commencing on Wednesday, the 29th inst. As this Association dates back to the history of scientific progress in this country to April 2, 1846, and is now a permanently incorporated body, some account of its history may be of interest to the readers of the Commercial.

The first meeting of the American Association of Geologists and Naturalists was held in Philadelphia on April 2, 1846, with Professor Edward Hitchcock, now deceased, as Chairman, and L. C. Beck, also deceased, as Secretary. Eight annual meetings of the Association were held under the above title.

At the meeting held in Boston, September 30, 1847, of which Professor Wm. B. Rogers was Chairman, Professor Jeffrey Brantford and Benj. Billman, Jr., of Troy, N. Y., were elected. The association was reconstituted, with the present title of the society. Since that date meetings have been held, except in the years 1851, 1852, 1853, 1854, 1855, 1856, and 1857, in the month of August, the last being held in Buffalo, N. Y., August 22, 1876, with Professor William B. Rogers as President.

In March, 1874, the Association was duly incorporated by the Legislature of Massachusetts, the incorporators being, among others, Professor Joseph Henry, Smithsonian Institution; Professor Benjamin Pierce, of Cambridge; Professor James M. Davis, of Yale University; Isaac Lea, of Philadelphia; Professor T. Sterry Hunt, of Boston; Professor Asa Gray, of Cambridge, and other gentlemen of high standing in various branches of scientific learning and culture. The objects of the Association are thus set forth in the articles of the Constitution: "The objects of the Association are, by periodical and migratory meetings, to promote intercourse between those who are cultivating science in different parts of America; to give stronger and more general impulse and more systematic direction to scientific research, and to promote the progress of science by the use of the best facilities and a wider usefulness."

When it is remembered that the standing committee is made up of such men as Professor Joseph Henry, Professor Pierce, Professor James M. Davis, Professor Hunt, Professor Newberry, Professor Gray, Dr. Charles Schuchert, Professor Conte, men whose scientific reputation is world-wide, and whose lives have been devoted to science, it will be seen that the present meeting will be one of extraordinary interest.

The volume of proceedings for the Buffalo meeting is a beautiful volume, and the retiring President, Professor Edward S. Morse, of Salem, Professor Barker, of Adams and Mechanicsville, Professor S. W. Hildreth, of Eastern Pennsylvania; Professor J. W. Dawson, of "Zeonon Cascadense"; Professor Wilder, of Cornell, on "Arctic and Antarctic"; Professor J. A. Rees, of Missouri, on the "Army Worm"; and numerous other papers of scientific interest and practical value.

Indeed, the labors of the members all seem to be directed towards scientific research of a practical character, the papers being largely of a practical nature, and the Association has been successful in securing the attention of the public to its labors. It is a pleasure to see that the Association has been successful in securing the attention of the public to its labors.

The Vanderbilts University. During the forenoon the writer had the pleasure of forming the acquaintance of Professor James M. Sedford, who has been elected Professor of Geology and Botany in the Vanderbilt University. Professor Sedford is best known in scientific circles by his excellent "Geology of the Adirondack," one of the best geological surveys ever published. In company with the Professor, who had been in charge of the geological department of the University, we visited the magnificent apparatus, vast cabinets of minerals and casts of extinct monsters, all in cases of the most exquisite workmanship, and placed in thoroughly lighted and perfectly ventilated galleries.

One can not help wondering, after all, if Professor Sedford is not somewhat in error when he declares that the Association has been successful in securing the attention of the public to its labors. It is a pleasure to see that the Association has been successful in securing the attention of the public to its labors.

Organization of the meeting in general session at 10 A. M. on Wednesday, in the Hall of Representatives. The meeting was called to order by the retiring President, Professor Wm. B. Rogers, of Cambridge. Acceptance of the Report by Professor Simon Newcomb, of Washington. Invocation by the Rev. T. O. Summers.

Address of welcome on behalf of the Local Committee and citizens by Mrs. M. M. Lea, President of the Historical Society. Reply by Professor Newcomb. Announcement by the General Secretary of the arrangements made by the local and standing committees. Election by ballot, after nomination of six Fellows to the standing committee.

Election of new members recommended by the Standing Committee. Notes of deceased members. Agreement on the hours of meeting, and other general business. The above programme will reach the Commercial in time to inform Cincinnati parties interested in the meeting, of the general order of business for the first day of the meeting, and the names of the speakers for the day. The meeting will be held at the Hotel Hamilton, commencing on Wednesday, the 29th inst.

and of Professor Lupton, of Vanderbilt University, will be interesting, and it can insure the fullest success.

In my account of the Association mailed on Saturday last, it was stated that the meetings of the Association from 1850 until 1866, the war having interfered with the National club, were held in New York.

I shall send you a full account of the proceedings of the Entomological Club, as its work has practical value, being directed to an investigation of the means of preventing the ravages of the locusts, grasshoppers and other insect pests, that annually destroy thousands of dollars worth of crops.

It might be of interest to you to see the investigations which it also calls for. It might be of interest to you to see the investigations which it also calls for.

Western Associated Press Telegram. NASHVILLE, TENN., August 28.—Indications are favorable for an unusually full and interesting meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Sixty-five members are registered to-night, against thirty-eight the night preceding the Buffalo meeting last year.

From the excitement of the young men it appears that his education is so limited, as not to enable him to read English manuscripts. It will now be sent by Adams Express and the Commercial will get it.

LOGAN, August 27. Judge W. H. West addressed the third Republican League at Logan, in the presence of some of the prominent citizens of that place, and some of whom were Democrats, occupied the auditorium. Among those present some had come from miles to hear the orator, satisfied to obtain that they were in the presence of a man who was well known to them.

Dr. J. Oatley presided, with the following Vice Presidents: "George W. C. Culver, Dr. C. D. Jones, Dr. James Little, Joel Gibson, D. Parsell, Jesse Roberts, Isaac Stites, Secretaries: Mesdames G. W. W. Little, L. A. Culver, A. J. Brown, L. H. Bright.

Judge West was received with demonstrations of the warmest friendship. He was introduced by the Rev. Mr. West, and he said the interests of our State are so diversified, that what suits the people of one section is not adapted to another. It is a pleasure to see that the Association has been successful in securing the attention of the public to its labors.

Dr. Linsley is entirely enthusiastic over the prospect for one of the largest and most interesting meetings ever held in this city. He is a pleasure to see that the Association has been successful in securing the attention of the public to its labors.

against that ratification. "Never mind," said they, "I will not let the darlings in a little while, any how."

These "INDEPENDENT REPUBLICANS" are invisible to the naked eye in the counties traversed by the "Beaury movement." To every and frequent inquiries as to the extent of sympathy with the "Beaury movement" in the counties traversed by the "Beaury movement," the answer is uniformly "we have not seen any of them."

The Society of Friends vs. Benj. E. Hopkins. To the Editor of the Commercial: We are surprised at the repetition of statements in regard to our Society, and, as before stated, this is in regard to our Society, and, as before stated, this is in regard to our Society.

Now the public will be able to judge if any of his statements are true. We say, and can prove by many witnesses, who were present at the sale of the mechanic house property, that Mr. Sandman bought the property at public auction, that these were his answers and statements; that he created a block of stores upon it. And it is well known that Mr. Sandman was then a capitalist.

As to his claim that he and Friends on Fifth street were ever in the presence of George Fox, we submit the following extract from George Fox's epistle to the Governor of this State, published in the Commercial of the 15th inst. "The only wise, omnipotent and everlasting God, the creator of all things in heaven and earth, and who is preserved forever, and who will be glorified forever, and who will be glorified forever, and who will be glorified forever."

I humbly offer the opinion that my visits to Hamilton and Chillicothe will result more of comfort to the good name of the Cincinnati schools than any pecuniary advantage to me.

Dear Sir—Fifteen years ago last fall I was taken sick with rheumatism, and was unable to move until the next April. From that time until three years ago I suffered everything with rheumatism. Sometimes there would be weeks at a time that I could not step on my feet. These attacks were quite often, and I suffered everything that a man could.
